ACTIVITIES

After graduating from university of the Fraser Valley with Bachelor in computer information systems, decided to improve my sales and negotiations skills before applying for a web developer job. Joined a fitness center as a personal trainer where I:

- Improved my sales and negotiation skills by selling personal training packages the clients ranging from $60 per hour to $90 per hour. Package pricing depended on the duration of training sessions.
- Coached and managed 30+ clients per month. Did daily check-in with clients either in person or using email.
- Got awarded by the district personal training manager of Club16 as the top performer in sales and number of sessions completed (for the year 2021 and 2022).

After helping hundreds of clients achieve their fitness goals, I refreshed my coding skills using codecademy.ca online bootcamp. And now, I'm starting my journey in the Web development industry.
